ICYMI: Donalds Joins The War Room

WASHINGTON – Congressman Byron Donalds (R-FL) joined The War Room on Real America's Voice to discuss the debate over the upcoming government funding deadline.

Watch the full interview here.

If the federal government is not going to do its job, why should you pay them:

“I live in Naples, Florida—beautiful place. Everybody comes down there. In my constituency, they want the border secured, they want the Constitution followed, and then after that they just want to be left alone. But when they see this mess on Capitol Hill, you know they are incredibly frustrated. And so, as I've been talking about this at home and talking about this up here on the hill, you know people back home are saying, 'Yeah, that's the right move.' Because at the end of the day, you know I'm a business guy before I got into politics. If you don't do your job, you don't get paid. If there is a business I was going to do a contract with, get services from, and they don't give me the services, they don't get money, and up here on Capitol, if the federal government is not going to do its job, why should you pay them? It's that simple. It's simple logic...and I know that's where my district is, and I believe that's where the American people are.”
