ICYMI: Donalds Joins the Floridian Press

WASHINGTON – Congressman Byron Donalds (R-FL) joined Javier Manjarres with the Floridian Press to discuss the divide within the Democratic Party and how Republicans are looking ahead to the 2026 midterm elections.

Watch the full interview here or below:

The current state of the Democratic Party:

"Just like I said earlier, they have no center, they have no leadership, they're all over the place... The Democrat Party is more concerned about their radical fringe base than what actually matters in the lives of the American people."

The Republican agenda:

"But Republicans, what we're gonna do, we're gonna focus on common sense Conservative solutions that address the real-world concerns of the people that we serve. We are not going to get caught up in these left-wing culture battles that only matter to twenty percent of the electorate."
